Bora Research - Weekly Market Review (24-Mar-23)

WEEKLY MARKET HEADLINES

- IMF calls on bilateral creditors to support Ghana's effort to restore debt sustainability; While the IMF is engaging Ghanaian authorities on progress made on its request, they are also seeking assurances from Ghana's partners with regards to external debt restructuring. The IMF has indicated that this is necessary for Ghana before the country can present its programme request to the Executive Board for approval. (CitiBusiness)
- MTNGH shares hit a one-year high of GH¢1.30 per share; The telecommunications giant has become the most traded stock on the Ghana Stock Exchange over the past three months, with volume of 168 million shares valued at over GH¢150million traded over the period. A volume high of 142million was registered today, 24th March. (Bora Research)
- Market eagerly awaits Monetary Policy Committee's (MPC) rate decision on 27th March; The market suspects that the MPC may face a challenging decision in setting the benchmark interest rate. This is on the back of the conflicting factors of high inflation and the Government's drive to reduce borrowing costs by lowering interest rates on Treasury bills. (BFTOnline)
